

Intro to interview with Ardys Kellerman
Inner Views with Abigail Mahnke
January 19, 2007

Good afternoon and welcome to “Inner Views,” the show about everyday people with not so everyday stories. I’m Abigail Mahnke and you’re listening to K-O-O-P Hornsby-Austin, 91.7 FM—also streaming on the web at koop.org. Thanks for joining me.

My guest today is Ardys Kellerman, a 75-year-old great grandmother who is not your average 75-year-old great grandmother: Ardys is a long distance motorcycle rider, thinking nothing, for example, of riding 1,000 miles in a day. Her accomplishments are numerous, surpassing most riders many years her junior. We’ll learn how Ardys first started to ride motorcycles, and how that developed into the huge numbers of miles she clocks every year.

Ardys, welcome to Inner Views.
